

VISITING ARTIST MICHAEL PROKOS CLAY WORKSHOP

THE COLLEGE
OF THE
FLORIDA KEYS

Michael is a second generation potter coming from a family of artists and art teachers. He grew up in Highland Park & Evanston Illinois, near-by suburbs of Chicago along Lake Michigan. His father was the Professor of Ceramics & head of the Art Department at Barat College. His mother was a Weaver, Ceramicist & now an Illustrator of children's books & an Art teacher.

As a child Mike's "playground" was the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago where he spent afternoons with his Mom as she did research among the various exhibits. Mike's family had a Ceramics

School and Gallery at their home & made clay for the area schools. In the late 1960's they held workshops with well-known artists Paul Soldner & Tom Collins and hosted Peter Voulkas while he installed his bronze sculpture, "Miss Nitro".
